

André Utzinger

Financial and Sustainability Analyst

Having pursued an academic career, André Utzinger has specialised in interdisciplinary and topical questions exploring social, political, economic and legal issues alike, and he has published several articles in the field. He has studied philosophy, economics, and economic and social history at the University of Zurich. During his studies he started working at the local Department of Philosophy, where he held various positions as a teaching and research assistant. Subsequently, he joined a Swiss National Science Foundation project affiliated to the chair of Public International Law and European Law at the University of Fribourg. In addition to his PhD (University of Zurich), he holds a Certificate of Advanced Studies in Finance (issued from the Universities of Zurich and Basel). Besides working in academia, André Utzinger was the co-founder of a publishing business, which he ran for several years. He worked with well-known authors, among them leaders in business, politics and cultural life.

«When it comes to opening up possibilities for action, having capital at one's disposal is paramount. However, social responsibility grows equally with this kind of individual freedom. At Forma Futura I therefore strive to harmonise profitability with responsibility.»
